

SOCIAL NOTES

PHOTO BY CAMPBELL STUDIO

MISS KATHIE RINE ELKINS

The following interesting gossip was sent in to the social writer:

Gossip about the Abruzzi-Elkins match will, of course, never end until the altar or official announcement that it is declared off shall have laid it in the dust. Rome, it goes without saying, has settled with it, and the views of Americans who are jealous and Italians who are resentful have been the theme of every palazzo on the seven hills. The latest has it that, when at the family council the Duke d'Asos and the Count of Turin at last—and only very reluctantly—had consented to accept Miss Elkins as sister-in-law, things looked bright and promising. From the beginning the King gave Abruzzi his support after the Prince had convinced his cousin that the young lady was worthy to become a member of the Royal house of Savoy. The King did not forget the difficulties he had to overcome with his father, King Humbert, and the then all-powerful Premier Crisp, when some twelve years ago he insisted on marrying the beautiful, but so poor and insignificant Princess Helena of Montenegro. Should the Abruzzi-Elkins marriage take place, the American princess will have a warm and affectionate friend in Queen Helena, who is now as radiant happy as she is beautiful. But how about the rest of the Royal ladies, of which there are five? They all are high-spirited and independent, and not in the habit of submitting gracefully or meekly, like the Prussian princesses when the Kaiser has dictated by whom they shall be received and whom not. Queen Margherita has expressed herself in unmistakable terms against this latest "American invasion" at the Quirinal Court. Duchess Helene d'Asos, sister of the Duke d'Orléans and of Queen Amélie of Portugal, is likely to have one of her sudden and convenient spells of illness which prevent her from taking part in Royal festivities at Rome and elsewhere. She has her husband very much on the string when intimate family affairs are concerned, and no one believes she will extend a glad hand to the newcomer; moreover, the still juvenile Dowager Duchess d'Aosta, Laetitia Bonaparte, the only Imperial Highness among the many Royal Highnesses, as stepmother-in-law, will not frustrate traditions in what is generally expected of mothers-in-law. In the Genoa branch there is the old Dowager Duchess, also grandmother of the King, a Saxon princess, known to be most "différente" in family and other matters, and the younger Duchesse Isabella, a Bavarian princess; it is but natural that these ladies will chime in with Queen Margherita and keep distant.

In time, and with tact, probably the antagonists of the Royal ladies may diminish, but unfortunately Miss Elkins is known as being rather headstrong, always having had her own will and what she wanted, while tact is not numbered among the many virtues the newspapermen have been able to discover in her. Now comes the political side of the matter which cannot be overlooked in a monarchy built on democratic and popular principles. When the mother of Aosta, Turin and Abruzzi, the lovely Princesse Maria Victoria Pozzo della Cisterna, was chosen to become the spouse of Amadeo d'Aosta, second son of Victor Emmanuel essentially English and so simple that the acting must be perfect in every detail. In the competent hands of Dr. F. H. Humphris the character of Mr. Jessup shines out as a unique bit of acting. He looked and was the kind-hearted family solicitor—quiet, polished, and he brought into the poor lodging house that indescribable thing we call "atmosphere." Mr. Humphris as Kate Cunliffe, gave a charming interpretation of that lovable character. From the moment of her entry one felt a sympathy for her. She looked the dainty pretty English girl, and received a deserved ovation. Mrs. Cunliffe, (Mrs. Fred K. Waterhouse) played her part with thorough understanding. She made a most interesting looking widow, and acted with beams. Miss Ella Wight was chic and bright. Mr. James Wilder as Guy Mallory, the artist, and the lover of Kate, was most amusing. He often spoke his lines with too much feeling. Being an artist himself he could appreciate the situation although a crust and a garret are very far away from the fleshy James. He made a decided hit, associated with that east and nonchalance for which he is celebrated. At a moment's notice Mr. James Cigren Harvey took the part of Lord Ambley. He had only twenty-four hours in which to prepare himself, for Mr. Warren was too ill to act. He certainly is a great comedy actor. The lightness of his touch, his inspiring speech, the intonation of his voice, all were Lord Ambley to the life. He seemed to get into the very skin of the part, and won the audience from the beginning. It was certainly a finished performance, and Honolulu ought certainly to be grateful for a really amusing evening with amateurs. There were many flowers sent, but given only after the last curtain was rung down.

Mr. W. W. Simpson and his charming wife were guests at the Moana Hotel for several months, and made pound gold-button fish shortly after many warm friends. This account in 9 minutes, on light tackle. The record was broken and the diamond button of the Light Tackle Club won by W. W. Simpson of England for his capture of a 60 1/2-pound yellowtail at San Clemente yesterday. The monster fish, 17 pounds larger than any ever brought to gaff under the club's rules, was the center of interest to spectators. The fish was 56 1/2 inches long and 30 inches in circumference. It was brought to the distinguished visitor after 50 minutes of the most strenuous and exciting play. The fish, by its tremendous rushes, tested to the utmost the slender line and fragile rod, and, but for the skill displayed by Mr. Simpson, would easily have escaped.

So determined was the first frantic rush that over 660 feet of line was out before it could be stopped. Then the fish would turn and the angler had to reel slack line at a rapid rate to avoid having it snapped when one of the tangent rushes ended. Finally the fish, exhausted from running, sucking, and diving, only to be turned again and again, surrendered.

Besides the world's record, Mr. Simpson will secure all of the following prizes for his catch:

Light Tackle Club, Class C, yellow-tail diamond medal, for the largest yellowtail of season. Medal presented by Donald B. Gillies, Tonopah, Nev. Winner's name to be engraved on gold bar each season. Medal property of club.

Yellowtail Cup, for the largest yellowtail of the season. Silver loving cup, presented by the Western Hardware and Arms Company of Los Angeles. Winner's name to be engraved on same each season, and the cup to become the property of the angler winning it twice.

Class C yellowtail prize, for largest yellowtail of season. Split bamboo rod, presented by William Hunt Jr., of Avalon, Calif. Rod presented at close of tournament.

Tuna Club, John F. Francis medal, for largest yellowtail of season. Winner's name engraved on bar each season.

Eddy Cup, for largest yellowtail of season. Silver loving cup, presented by Arthur J. Eddy of Chicago, Ill. Cup to be given to the owner of the boat winning it three times.

The start on the lucky trip was made at 1 o'clock yesterday morning for San Clemente on the launch Juanita. George Michneil, boatman, Mr. Simpson was accompanied by S. A. Barron of Mexico City in the launch San Toy. W. H. Matthews, boatman. The party reached the east end of Clemente at 7 a. m., and here for three hours the fishing was done. Owing to the heavy kelp formation Mr. Simpson lost leaders before securing the record fish, at 9:05. Mr. Barron bringing to gaff a 44-foot fish for several months, and made pound gold-button fish shortly after many warm friends. This account in 9 minutes, on light tackle. The record was broken and the diamond button of the Light Tackle Club won by W. W. Simpson of England for his capture of a 60 1/2-pound yellowtail at San Clemente yesterday. The monster fish, 17 pounds larger than any ever brought to gaff under the club's rules, was the center of interest to spectators. The fish was 56 1/2 inches long and 30 inches in circumference. It was brought to the distinguished visitor after 50 minutes of the most strenuous and exciting play. The fish, by its tremendous rushes, tested to the utmost the slender line and fragile rod, and, but for the skill displayed by Mr. Simpson, would easily have escaped.

The hop in the ball-room of the Alexander Young Hotel on Tuesday evening brought out many of the older officers of the Fleet, who took this opportunity of renewing their acquaintances of yore. Many greetings were exchanged and dancing continued throughout the evening. Governor Freer and Secretary Mott-Smith, who dined with Admiral Scott on the Connecticut, came in a little late, bringing the distinguished visitor with them. He watched the dances with interest and sat out with many fair dames. The roof garden was crowded and the little tables always engaged. The illumination of the ships could be seen to great advantage and the officers seemed to enjoy it as much as their fair friends. It was a glorious sight, and one that will be long remembered. The hop, an impromptu affair, gotten up by several society women, was one of the most successful affairs of the week.

In the ball-rooms were noticed: Mrs. S. M. Damon, Mrs. Mary Wildfield, Mrs. Ernest Mott-Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Babbitt, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hall, the Misses Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacIntyre, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mrs. Augustus Knudsen, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Atkinson, Mrs. Nellie Swanson, a large number of officers from the sailing ships.

Mrs. Charles Conner gave a bridge luncheon on Monday in honor of Miss Ben Taylor, her guest. The house, with its conservatory filled with beautiful plants, is charmingly arranged. It is cool with the winds of the Pacific always blowing in. Among the guests were Mrs. Edward Tenney, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mrs. C. L. Wright, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Foch, Mrs. Kietebach, Mrs. Charles Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Harry Matson, Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Conrad, Mrs. Lanz, Mrs. Mary Gunn, Mrs. George Herbert, Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Misses Walker, Mrs. Andrew Entler, Miss Hardaway.

Miss Juliette Atherton was the charming hostess of a polo luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Misses Perrine and Towle. Dainty favors were given the guests in the form of calabashes, fans, and Hawaiian views. Leis were presented each guest. Among those present were Misses Violet Damon, Vera Damon, Katherine Smith, Powell, (2), Green, Cordelia Gilman, Alice Hedemann, Nora Sturgeon, Alice Brown.

The Call has the following note about well-known persons. Mrs. Quattrough is a guest at The Pleasanton:

Much to the regret of the smart set, the two Washington society women who have been visiting here, Mrs. George T. Mayre and Mrs. Quattrough, will sail this morning for Honolulu, where they will spend a fortnight. They will make the complete tour of the world after the ship returns to Washington some time in the spring. Both are great favorites with society here and have been much feted. Mrs. Merriam, another charming Navy woman, also will sail this morning.

And in the same paper is this clipping:

Yosemite is still the objective point of many of those at the Oakland craft. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mark are coming out on the Hawaiian Islands, and Mrs. Mrs. Alexander Mark will make up a party which will spend the late July in the valley. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Weston have been enjoying some interesting days in this favorite spot. Dr. and Mrs. Ray E. Gilson will remain away from town a week longer, the party with which they were touring Yosemite having returned last week.

Last Sunday was certainly a gala day for Waikiki, everybody being attracted to the beach to witness the sports. At Mrs. Laura Wight's there was a congenial tea party, and Mrs. A. M. Brown entertained a large number of people. One could see the racing boats most plainly from the Brownland. Tea was served and later some dancing on the beach after dinner. The Misses Island are very pretty girls and are receiving much attention. They are making a tour around the world with their mother.

One of the most enjoyable lunches of the week was given by Mrs. Walter Brinckerhoff on Tuesday.

Those present included the following: Miss Agnes Knudsen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood, Mrs. Alice Schmitz, Miss Peck, Mrs. Nellie Swanson, a large number of officers from the sailing ships.

Mrs. Charles Swanson, who always entertains so well, gave a dinner on Friday evening, and among their guests were Mrs. Augustus Knudsen, Admiral Coates, Captain Ives, and Count de Souza Caravaro. Everybody went on to the Macfarlane dance at the Seaside Hotel, which was a successful and gay affair.

Mrs. Agnes S. Fox settled this week for England. She has been a guest of the Clive Davies. They gave a sailing and swimming party at the Waikiki bungalow on Tuesday in her honor, at which there were about sixty officers present. A delicious supper with later dancing concluded a very enjoyable day.

A cable from France announced the arrival there of Miss Julia Langborne, who has joined Mrs. William Twin and Miss Helen in Paris. She will spend a fortnight with them before going on to join her sister, Miss Richard Hammond, in the Comedie-Calle.

Mrs. Southerton and the Misses Southerton will sail for the Orient on Wednesday. They have been extensively entertained and are very popular.

Cards are out for the Yacht Club dance at the Moana Hotel on Monday evening in honor of the visiting yachtsmen.

Miss Minnie M. Wight, who has been visiting in Honolulu for the past month, has returned to her home.

Mrs. F. M. Swanson gave a picnic on Tuesday on Tantalus in honor of Admiral Speyer.

The man who has a Redwood tank will never suffer from a water shortage. His tank keeps water pure and sweet during the shortage. See our large stock on them. Lawers & Cooke, Ltd.

Dr. Thomas W. Small, chief surgeon of the American line steamer St. Louis, committed suicide by shooting in his cabin while the boat was at New York, no reason for the act being known.

TO LET

For Business Purposes

ADVERTISING SPACE

WITH POWER

Any legitimate business enterprise may rent advertising space in this newspaper with power — the one dependable motive power for running any business that can be made to run — the power of PUBLICITY.

Space may be secured according to your requirements — much or little, as you may elect, with preference for much if you hope to do much business.

Apply at

Bulletin

Business Office.

Pau-Ka-Hana

At All
At All
Grocers

DR. T. HOPKINS, 37 Great Jones Street, New York